

SPEAKER: Mary Collins – Fulbright Scholar

Friday, March 9, 2012
2:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.

In the U.S. the profession of social work started about 100 years ago. In Vietnam, the start of the social work profession has been much more recent, but there is increasing attention to developing this field.

Come to the American Center to get more information about the profession of social work from the U.S. perspective. Also join a discussion on the types of social work practiced in Vietnam today and the outlook for social work in Vietnam for the future.
